SCROUNGING AS OF RIGHT

From Regina the Canadian Press reports H.S. Farquhar, chairman of the Nova Scotia Old Age Pensions Board, as saying that in the Maritime Provinces there still is considerable stigma attached to people forced to accept food, shelter and clothing from the public purse.

As this was part of a report of a meeting of the Canadian Welfare Council it can be assumed that those present consider it too bad that people should be reluctant to stop looking after themselves. In fact, "several speakers" urged that people be taught that such help is something to which they are entitled. The theory of social service is that no applicant for help is even to be investigated. He is to get not only what he needs but also what he wants. Thus we have arrived at the point where everyone is owed a living by his country.

The proportion of the people who can work, can find work, and won't work is just sufficiently large to wreck the nation. And if all stigma is to be removed from public charity, the number who will stop trying will grow constantly. —The Printed Word.

Civil Defence Rules
For Rural Residents

Rural residents of Alberta must be prepared to play a major role in the evacuation and care of refugees from bomb-stricken areas. Air Vice Marshal G.R. Howsam, Provincial Defence Co-ordinator said recently. He said the people of rural municipalities and towns had done an "outstanding job" caring for evacuees from the Manitoba flood areas and deserving the highest praise for the work they had done.

The Air Marshal said that rural residents had other duties in addition to that of caring for refugees. They must prepare to protect their persons and their property against air attack and to guard against bacteriological attack.

The safest place for Alberta farmers to take shelter during an air attack would be the cellar or root cellar. It appeared "extremely unlikely" that atomic bombs would be dropped near farms but if an atomic bomb exploded on or near a farm, some of the farmers crops would be flattened or burnt. Fruit and vegetables stored in cellars would be safe from radioactivity.

"This talk of A-bombs dooming the earth is nonsense," the co-ordinator said. "It would take many thousands of A-bombs to produce dangerous ground contamination. A herd of about 50 cows in New Mexico was hit by atomic dust. Except for grey hairs on the burned patches, the cows are now completely normal, producing normal calves."

Bacteriological attack would be a serious threat which farmers should guard against bacteria or fungi calculated to bring death, injury or disease to men, animals and plants might be delivered by aircraft, balloons or saboteurs.

Agricultural SERVICE
NOTES

W.K. Snyder,
Field Supervisor

Farmers in some areas are holding extra moisture in their fields by riding the snow to keep it from blowing away. This practice should begin after the first heavy fall of snow, but is useful even at a much later date—at any time when there is a fairly heavy snow blanket covering the ground. Track type tractors or large size rubber tired tractors either pulling or pushing a V type snow riding device are used to do the job. Once ridged, new snow and blowing snow fills the space between the ridges, and stays there until it melts in the spring. The moisture from this extra snow has given these farmers some increase in yield.

Snow ridging is done mainly on fall plowed or tilled land and on summerfallow land that would ordinarily blow clean without the protection of the snow ridges. It is considered best to make these ridges at right angles to the direction of the prevailing winter storms. The ridges will serve their purpose best if made about 75 feet apart or less.

Any field that has snow to the depth of one foot or more is sure to have the necessary moisture to get the crops away to a good start in the spring.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

That the mistake of looking in the wrong direction for happiness can be corrected for all, with attendant blessings, will be clarified Sunday in Christian Science churches. The subject of the Lesson: Sermon is "Soul" and it is discussed in passages like these: "Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; and let him return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon." (Isa. 55:7.) "The pains of sense are salutary, if they wrench away false pleasurable beliefs and transplant the affects from sense to Soul, where the creations of God are good, rejoicing the heart." (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, by Mary Baker Eddy, p. 265: 31-2.)

Government Business Is Your Business

Soils and farming are Alberta's greatest source of permanent wealth. To encourage the development, utilization and conservation of soil resources and to promote the general well-being of men and women serving on the land, is the function of the Department of Agriculture.

The current value of farm capital in Alberta is nearly one and a half billion dollars, but this is being increased rapidly by extensive irrigation developments and agricultural expansion throughout the province. Your Department of Agriculture serves through its branches, as follows: THE FIELD CROPS BRANCH includes divisions devoted to crop improvement, soil conservation, weed and pest control, horticulture and farmstead planning. An horticultural station is maintained at Brooks for the development of new fruits and vegetables adapted to Alberta conditions.

THE LIVE STOCK BRANCH assists to improve the quality of Alberta herds and flocks through a number of improvement policies. Specialists on each class of live stock give full attention to production problems.

THE DAIRY BRANCH is responsible for dairy herd improvement work, licensing and inspection of plants manufacturing dairy products and cold storage locker plants.

THE VETERINARY SERVICES BRANCH maintains an up-to-date animal pathological laboratory through which services are offered the public and practicing veterinarians. Campaigns for the control of tuberculosis and Bang's disease are conducted.

Branches dealing with poultry, fur farming and apiculture are maintained.

THE AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION SERVICE provides the principal contact between the Department of Agriculture and the rural people. Forty-two district agriculturalists and fifteen district home economists make farm and home calls or are easily available for consultation. Specialists in nutrition, agricultural engineering, home designing, etc. assist with special problems.

SCHOOLS OF AGRICULTURE offer two-year courses in agriculture and home economics, and a Junior Farm and Home Club program is conducted. The complete junior program is aimed to promote good citizenship, arouse an appreciation of farming, and to give training in the principles and practices underlying successful farming and home-making.

FARM WORKERS COMING

The federal government hopes to bring in 150,000 immigrants to Canada this year, many of whom are expected to find work on Canadian farms. It is said that European farm workers who had been brought to Canada in recent years have given satisfactory service. Since 1947, 21,000 Dutch immigrants have come to this country, most of whom have found work on farms. It is expected that 12,000 immigrants from Holland will come during 1951.

The common cold can result in decreased hearing.

Notes From The D.A.

The following statement has been issued by Dr. H.C. Siv, District Veterinarian, Health of Animals Branch, Federal Department of Agriculture, Calgary.

"Tuberculin testing of all cattle in this municipality has commenced by federal full-time and part-time veterinarians, and the co-operation of all cattle owners will be greatly appreciated, both by the veterinarians engaged in this work and by the district office of the Health of Animals Division, 414 Public Bldg., Calgary, which is responsible for all phases of this work in the Province of Alberta. Full-time divisional veterinarians are those who are employed by the Federal Department of Agriculture on a full-time basis. Part-time veterinary practitioners who are willing to devote part of their time to Health of Animals Division work of this nature and who are remunerated by the Federal Department of Agriculture.

Cattle owners are reminded that since this municipality is established as a restricted area for eradication of Bovine Tuberculosis, no cattle may be brought into this municipality which have not been tuberculin tested in accordance with restricted area regulations.

SELF SECURITY COMES HIGH

By an economic device we call inflation, old people are being shorn of their security in a way that recalls the harsh treatment of abandoned elders by certain primitive tribes, asserts the Financial Post. It states: "A generation ago many were able to accumulate $20,000 and retire in confidence and security on the $1,200 annual interest that sum would provide.

"They cannot do it now. Not only do income taxes make the accumulation of capital more difficult but low interest rates and high living costs combine to reduce the income received from $20,000 both in actual dollars and in purchasing power to a mere pittance.

"Already inflation has gravely upset what once looked like sound retirement and estate plans based on savings, bonds and insurance. Scores of thousands of elderly Canadians who thought they would be able to take things easy in a year or two, will have to keep right on working. But if the inflation of the last ten years is to be repeated in the next ten, real catastrophe threatens. Prudent men will have been rewarded."

TO SAVE WILDLIFE

Tourist authorities in Canada have recently expressed alarm over the disappearance of our wildlife. The Financial Post asked a group of Canadians for suggestions on conservation. That problem can best be solved, in the opinion of many, by tighter restrictions built into existing game laws; greater scope of education as to the ways and wherefores of self imposed concern on the part of hunters and fishermen.

Many cited better protection from predatory animals, forest fires—all boiling down to an increase in present ranger ranks.

Increased license fees and stiffer penalties for offenders also got a good play.

But whatever the answer to the Post's question, it showed increasing concern and awareness of the bulk of Canadians to the folly and follies of (as one interviewee put it) "conservation of conversation."

SCIENTISTS SEEK NEW SPRAYS TO COMBAT INSECT PESTS

Natural enemies of insects like ladybirds and other insects helpful to man, may soon go about their business of eating pests injurious to plant life without danger of being killed by insecticides aimed at their prey, and spraying costs will accordingly be reduced. That is, of course, if scientists are successful in their present experiments of perfecting new selective sprays, according to Dr. Robert Glen, Chief of the Division of Entomology in the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, reporting on the recent meetings of the American Association of Economic Entomologists held at Denver, Colorado.

Dr. Glen and other Canadian Scientists presented papers and took part in the international discussions on the latest developments in insect control with Entomologists from the United States and Britain.

One paper that gave rise to considerable discussion was that given by Dr. D.F. Pleioui of the Dominion Parasite Laboratory at Belleville, Ontario, dealing with the breeding of strains of parasites of the oriental fruit moth that are resistant to D.D.T.

Preliminary tests show that new selective insecticides are effective against destructive pests like aphids and mites, and because of this selective action do not kill beneficial insects like ladybeetles. This leaves the natural enemies of pests free to do their share of the "mopping-up operations" which means Dr. Glen said, that fewer sprays will be required with a consequent saving in the grower's production costs.

When you take over the farm, one of these days, you'll want to talk to him. You can discuss your affairs in a friendly way, as I have done. And you'll find he knows a lot.

He knows we farmers need bank credit—sometimes to put in a crop, sometimes to take off a harvest. If we need market information, he can get it for us.

Remember when we electrified the farm? Our bank manager made me the loan. He's backed us up that way for years, helping us to improve our stock, increase production.

And that's what our bank manager is there for—to help you and me to manage. He's a good man to know.

The snow was followed by cold, clear weather on Sunday and temperatures went down to the 30s below mark Sunday night. Monday was a little warmer with the high 15 above, but a good old Alberta Chinook soared the temperatures well into the 30s on Tuesday and the prospects are for a spell of mild weather.
